

OI DIVISION

The OI Division of the PINE ISLAND is comprised of the Combat Information Center, Photographic Laboratory, and the Aerological Office. The Combat Information Center, or Combat as it is known, has the overall responsibility of collecting, evaluating, displaying and disseminating all combat information. A part of the job in CIC is to detect and identify aircraft, and to position guns on target. Certain control functions are also exercised by Combat, such as Tender Controlled Approach (TCA) or lost plane homing.

The Air Controlmen are responsible for traffic control of aircraft during take-offs and landings, in addition to relaying weather information and directing crash boats.

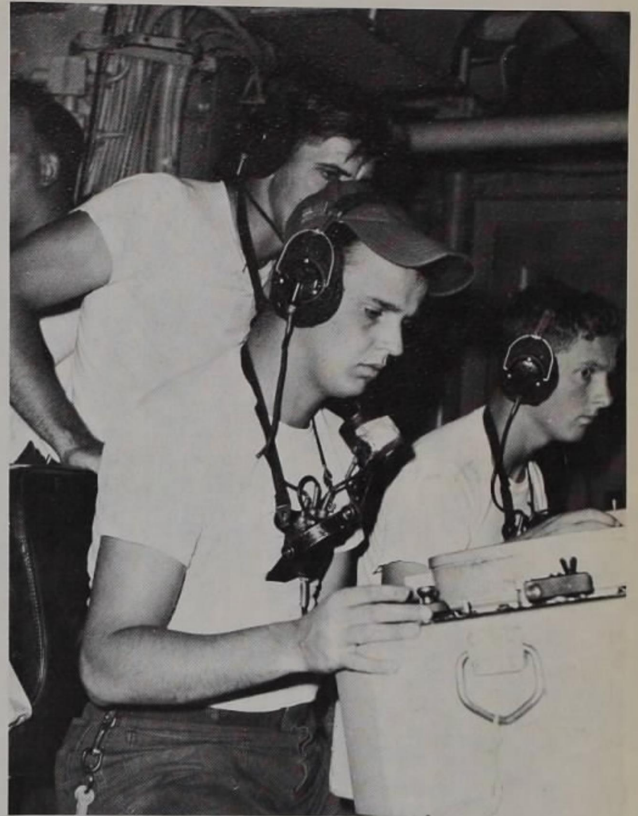

The Aerology Office collects all weather information in order to advise the ship of the current and future weather outlook.

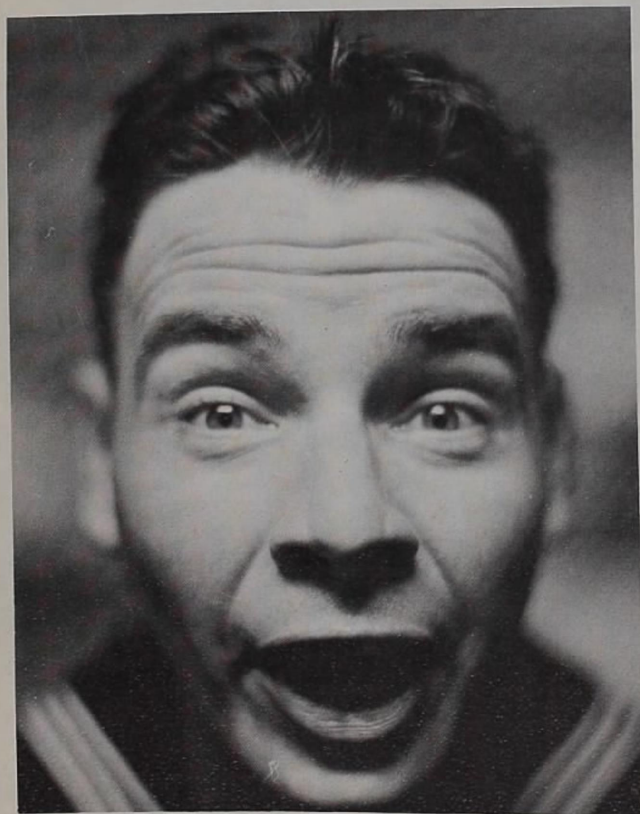

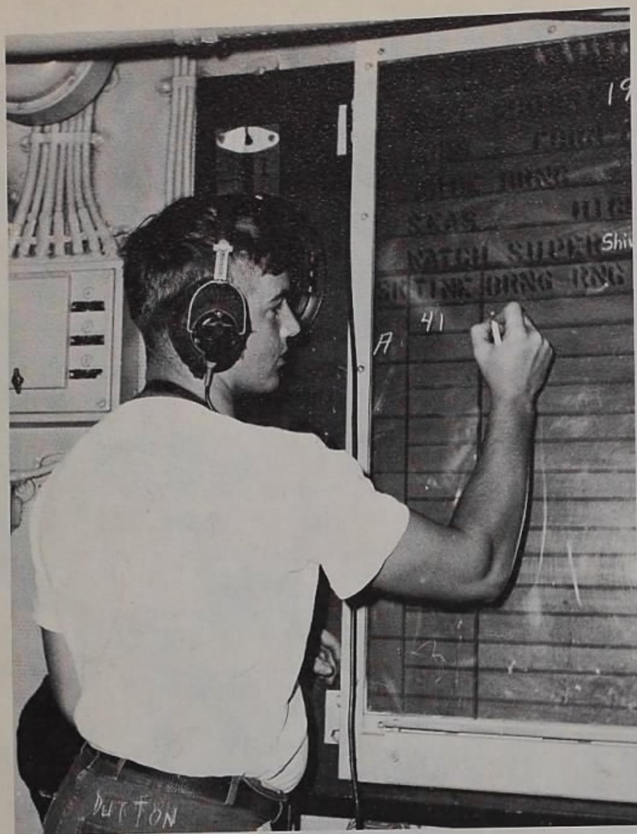

The Photographic Laboratory is responsible for aerial, I.D. and cruise book photographs, and any other required photographic work.
